TABLE OF CONTENTS

CHAPTER 1	EXECUTIVE SUMMARY	16
	Key findings	16
	Main conclusions	18
	Verdict Research predicts the toughest market conditions for global expenditure on luxury branded products in two decades.	18
	The luxury sector is not immune to the downturn...	18
	... and has clearly lost some of its lustre	18
	Bling is out ...	18
	... and considerate consumption is in	19
	Acute threat of price rises in the supply chain and production process	19
	Currency effects have an adverse impact on revenue generation	19
	Hard nosed business decisions are forced on the companies – how to drive sales and where to cut costs in the midst of a global downturn.	20
	The most controversial sales driving initiative would be cutting price.	20
	A different opportunity to generate sales growth would involve widening the distribution channel	20
	Thirdly the introduction of new product development could kickstart growth.	20
	It has become clear that costs have to be cut – the question is where.	21
	Now it's the US and Europe that count.	21
	We are sceptical of the growth potential of emerging markets.	21
